Say Hannero April 6—The month of Minch was considered good as regards real estate though not a numerical one. Many building contracts were filed but this is only to be expected at this season of your. The totals for March are larger than any for the last tin Jears. The first week of the present month opens with the filing of an unusually large number of building contracts representing the investment of a bandsome sum in brick, morter and lumber.

The general feeling among real estate men and architects is one of satisfaction. The number of sales going on quiety is large, and enquiry is encouraging. Prices have been itsing steadily in the southern and western portions of the city. Brokers, however complain connewlyst that owners hold on too tightly to their property.

Scarcity of Piles.

Save Francisco, April 6—The scarcity of piles is becoming a serious matter to contractors who have work on hand along the scawall. The harbor commissioners have a contract with Capt, Bichard for piles that they will need this year and the captain has more than enough on hand to fill his contract with the board but not enough for the rest of his work. The scarcity is due to the unlooked for demand south puncipally at an Dieto and the great amount that is being u at by the railroads. It is now too late in the sca on to cut timber which would be suitable and the result will be that conderable work will have to be postponed.

operations, and the necessary employment of a large force of men, will be to accelerate general activity and enhance the value of all properties. Not only will this be true of Oswego in particular, and all the community between that place and Portland proper. It will inevitably stimulate the settlement of the land and the improvement of scores of individual homes.

It will inevitably stimulate the settlement of the land and the improvement of scores of individual homes.

Another powerful developing factor is the completion and operation of the Portland & Willamette Vulley railway. Besides the mere question that railrond construction always enhances the value of real estate, the other no less important consideration of rapid and easy transit is to be regarded. Since the completion of the road from Elik Rock to Portland, several weeks ago, local trains have been running regularly making trips at brief intervis between the two points. The run to and fro consumes only a lew minutes; including stor pages—thus bringing Oswego and all way points almost at the southern door of the city. This rapid transportation is bound to interest population in that direction. Persons working in Portland can come in the mortaing and return home in the evening, without cacroachment upon the hours allotted to hear. Those hving in this city and who find employment at Oswego, or at any point this side, can go and come without the loss of time; and persons living between this city and Oswego are thus favorably located with reference to reaching either terminus without the convenience, or delay.

These trips at made by the trains so as to

THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

These improvements have imparted such an impetus that it seems as if nothing can now check this new outlet through which the natural overflow of activities of Portland have commenced to pour. That the whole stretch of country extending from this city southward to Osweno, and even beyond, is stretch of country extending from this city southward to Oswego, and even beyond, is one of the most attractive sections any where about Portland, scarcely admits of argument. Nature has done much, and industry, taste and art, can complete all that may be lacking. Hundreds, and in coming time, thousands of beautiful homes will be made to grace that district—reaching from the river's bank clear back to the very crest of the now wooded bills on the west. Already many houses dof, cordon-like, the face of the landscape and really suggest to the mind the advance guards which precede the great army of improvements which is to speedily follow.

the great army of improvements which is to speedily follow.

Among thelimportant projected improvements in that section, and one which will add greatly to the general attractiveness, is the construction of a contour road or boulevard. This drive is to extend from the old Slavin road on the hill to the west of the river, down to a junction with the macadam highway. The boulevand will wind in graceful curves along the eastern slope of the hills and theme across the level plateau. In length the drive is intended to be about five miles. Already the contract for the building of the road has been let, and work will probably soon be commended.

the contract for the building of the road has been let, and work will probably soon be commenbed.

Extending for some distance south of the old water works and east of the macadam road is a large tract of low land which is subnerged during the summer fre-bet. As is well known, this entire strip was purchased some years ago by the Q. R. & N. Co. for terminal and car shop purposes. This purpose was subsequently abandoned. At the time it was proposed to fit up the entire tract above the June high water mark. Since the abundonment of the original project, nothing has been donely the company to change the natural condition of the land. Commanding the river front for a long distance, and lying within the city limits, the tract is of great worth and destined to become of immense value. Owing to its present and prospective value, it will certainly be improved in the near future, either by the company or by a syndicate of capitulists who muly become the owners. Practically, the land is of little use unless filled up, and it is too vultable to be allowed to remain in its present state. Now, that the city is growing southward so rapidly, the improvement of that truct sceme only a question of a very short time.

THE EAST SIDE. Why Real Estate is in Demand in Every Direction.

Much Inquiry Per Besidence Property East to Mt. Tabor and in Holiaday's Addition and for Fruit Farms South-Albina. In the superficial review of the east side

In the superficial review of the east side last Saturday, it was stated incidentally that the country over here is attracting attention throughout the state equally with Portland and the west side. Those who come over here from abroad and make an examination of the east side have expressed surprise that the big city on the Willamette had not been built on the east and not on the west side; that the wide and beautful expanse of country extending castward to afount Tabor, would have been a magnificent location for a large city, but they do not stop to consider that commercial conditions and deep river frontage shape the destinies of mighty business marts, and that seeming impossible geographical restrictions are casily avercome by compared to the contraction of the contraction. frontage shape the destinies of mighty business marts, and that seeming impossible geographical restrictions are e. sily overcome by commercial demands and power. The east side could never have been the location of great commercial importance, although it has ample room. But it will have a various appointation possibly as many permanent residents as Portland. It is perfectly safe to predict that a very large proportion of the prosperous business men of Portland will have residences at some point on the east side. The extension of the side that a very large point on the east side with confort and can get on the street cars and be taken to their homes on the east side with confort and dispatch at the close of business hours. All the imaginary antigonism between the west and east side have disappeared, and the interests of both sides large rown identical. Portland men are investing on this side in wharfage and real estate. Of course, under such conditions, there can be no more antagonism, and both sides will grow. It will be to the interect of Portland to encourage the growth of the east side in every possible way.

est of Portland to encourage the growth of the east side in every possible way.

It would not be hard to call to mind a number of men who do business in Portland but have their residence on the east side. Capt. U. B. Scott now lives in his new and beautiful home which he recently built in McMillan's addition. Speaking of beautiful homes, there are a number in Holladay's addition. Prominent among them may be mentioned those of A. H. Breyman, A. G. Cunningham, Councilman Bancroft, and a number of others whose owners are not in mind at present. The completion of the railroad bridge, it is thought, will have a strong tendency to induce building in this portion of the city. The people of Holladay's addition are to be congratulated on the prospect they have for improvements. The transferring of the 240 acres of land, as reported from Joseph Simon to the East Portland Real Estate Company and the clearing up of the title on the same, will put new life into this beautiful part of our city. Litigation has locked up much of the beautiful building locations in Holladay's addition, still the future will witness building activity never dreamed of. The completion of the railroad bridge will enable people in the northern part of the city to cross into Portland easily and without delay. North of Fourth-street bridge quite a cluster of neat little residences buve sprang up and others will be built. It is proposed by the street car company to extent their line so as to tap this portion. In other portions of East Portland can be mentioned the new residences of E. M. Sargent, recently completed on Eleventh. Ofto Kleeman is just finishing up his dwelling on Fourteenth and Mr. John Myers's new residences will cover its sloping sides. A correspondent writing to Myers' heavy side east. Further out to Mt. Tabor we come to several beautiful residences. Those of Henry Pretryman and Mr. Andrews are the largest and handsomest and command the most attention. There will be a number of new houses huilt at Mount Tabor this year. Simmer residenc It would not be hard to call to mind a

When the grand lodge of the I. O. O. F. held their annual session in this city they took an excursion out to the Orphan's Home on the O. R. & N. near Fairview. As the cars swept along north of Mount Tabor that beautiful devasion came into full view Everything was a beautiful deep green, and the brillhant sunshine brought out the fulinge in plotious relief. There were men from all parts of the state on the excursion, and as they looked on Mount Tabor and the magnificent slopes they at once declared they looked upon what would certainly be the sites for homes for Portland business men. No one can ride over Mount Tabor without being convinced their conclusions were correct. Stand at the highest elevation on Belianni Park and you can cover the country for a wide range at all points of the compays. Eastward the country stretches toward the Cascades, mingling forest foliage and open plain. On the north the Columbia sweeps neward to the Pacific between Oregon and Washington like a thread of silver. But we have to do with the country west. Romantic scenery and expansive landscape, with a well marked southern and northern incline on to the river front, suggests heaithful homes for those who toil in the shops of the counting houses and workshops of the binsy city on the west. Fertile by matural wealth of soil and watered by perpetual streams of pure water at all times of the year, no more interesting section of country can be found in the world. When the grand lodge of the I.O.O.F.

If you will take the trouble to inquire at the office of the real estate men as to where investments are sought and who are those the office of the real existe men as to where investments are cought and who are those seeking investment you will be told that small tracts are bought east of the city. By these who desire to engage in raising small fruits for general market. No one need he told that such product always finds a ready market in Portland. Near the car shops the business is carried to the highest perfection by the Italian gardners, who know how to nevery foot of ground. Out-dets counting in here see what can be done along this line better than even those who have lived here for years, and are eager to secure a few acres. Last sunner a gentleman from the East war out, and made an examination of the country along the asylam road (Hawsthorns avenue). Everywhere he saw streams of hying water. He cause from a country that was burned up, and remarked what he saw was the most wonderful country in the world. But all this section will be opened by the extension of the street car line eastward, which is now an assured fact. Not only the becauted Sunnyade tract will be thrown open to home-builders, but all the country East of the city.

There are those who claim that the southern part of the city will have a bradge into Portland and that it will be built by the Southern Pacific. It is claimed that the heavy real estate changes that have been recently under mice with the great probability of the bridge being constructed. Following is a recapitulation of the sales indicated: Clinton & McCoy from J. B. Stephens for $50,000; the Wash Allen tract, near the car shops, purchased by parties for $6,000; the Wash Allen tract, near the car shops, purchased by parties for $6,000; George Woodward, for the Penumbra Kelly tract, $20,000; Joseph Burkhard. H. D. McGure and L. F. Chemin point $30,000 for the Meier & Frank property; and the Sunnyside company gave $100,000 for the James Abraham's tract. All these places except the last mentioned are above the proposed location of the bridge. It is held with some degree of reason that any new line making its terminus at Fordand, not creasing on the railroad bridge now being-built must make a crossing through the southern There are those who claim that the southpart of the city. The more bridges and ferries we have the better. There will be a population on this side that will make bridges and ferries pay. Then they will bind the east and west sides more firmly together.

An impartial review of important sections on the east side should not fall to mention Albina. While it does not present an inviting appearance at a superficial glance, it is fairly prosperous and is making many progressive steps. A fine new schoold nive has been built on a high, commanding stuation. Russell street lies been improved, which gives that place a highway through the entire city. However, he street should be graveled and made a good sold roadway. The earth is too yielding to make a good street road. Already steps have been taken to improve other streets that intersect Russell. Helen, that extends on top of the hill and passes near the schoolhouse, will be improved. Mayor Illif says that some street will be improved into East kortland, so that people were bottled up, at d they are determined into to be placed in the same prod cament again. Now that a 'air beginning his been made along the line of struct work the place will improve in ap searance. A street-car rangulate is asked by some Portland gentlement, the line to extend from heart te ferry landing through the business portion of the city on top of the hil, where there is gathered a large settlement, and which is the placed will thus top that portion which overloads the vast ern in all building, and the inver. It is thought this high portion will be filed win work, non- On that point there is no quest on. If it were not a scalled fact, the money would never have been explanded in their constants. One word about the slonghs in East Portland, they care some people when they came over on the East side. But let the matter in all building, schoolhouses and churches. An impartial review of important sections on the east side should not fail to mention

One word about the sloughs in East Portland. They care some people when they came over on the East side. But let the matter in relation to them be settled at once. They do not influence the health of the East side one way or the other. Living spring water cannot have an unhealthy influence. The famous asytum springs supply the sloughs with pure water, and the only danger is from the fact that some people have a habit of casting rubbish into the sloughs, but into the sloughs, but this can be stopped by proper city regulation.

Saylor in regard to. Mrs. Kidder's mental condition:

In reply to an item published in regard to Mrs. Kidder, I must as in justice to the latter, that I was called in by Judge Catlin to examine Mrs. Kidder on a charge of insanity. We found her at her aome in East Portland, and after a half hour's conversation and examination of the children under her care, we came to the following conclusions:

First—That Mrs. Kidder was not insane, but excentric; that she had been for some weeks, and was quite feeble.

Second—We found the children under her care apparently happy, and did not show any evidence of iltreatment or want of care. The next day, at the request of Judge Catlin, I visited her again and found her in about the same condition. As to her use of morphia or opum, could not say positively, but from general appearances should not think she used the drag.

Between Gray's Hartor and Centralia Flowing Two Barrels Hourly.

Several weeks ago an Indian saw a store-keeper at Centralia measuring out some coal oil. He recognized the fluid, and said that he knew where there was "heaps" o if; and stated that when the Indians warter to make a fire quickly they poured the oil on the kinding wood.

a fire quickly they poured the oil on the kindling wood.

An investigating party was quickly organized, and the Iradian guided from to a spot about twenty index west of Centralia, in Chehalis county, about in dway between Centralia and Gray's harbor. There in the woods, and on governnent land, was found what to all inphearances was petroleum spouding from the earth. The flow was rapidly absorbed back into he ground, and had probably been going on faoin time immeriorial, as no white man had ever before been in that locality.

The discoverers resolved to keep the matter strictly quiet and at once sent to Pannsylvania for an expert to make a test of the oil. He finished his work last week and pronounced the "find" petroleum of the best quality. The flow is about two barrels per hour, which the expert says is phenomenal.

on. He drished his work tast week and pronounced the "find" petroleum of the best quality. The flow is about two barrels per flour, which the expert says is phenomenal, considering that no bor.og had been done. He asserted that when the ground should be broken by boring the flow would be inmediate, and he found inducations of oil for some distance around. In his cpinion that polition of Chehalis county will quad any section of Pennsylvania in the production of oil.

Immediately on receiving the expert's report a company was formed, cimposed of E. N. Binckley and other leading citizens of Centralia, Mr. Marriott, of Tacoma, the Washington territory representative of a wholesale grocery house of Chicago, and one or two Chicago capitalists. They have ordered machinery and ap blied to the government for permission to purchase the land and are making active preparations to sink wells and work their discovery.

SLAUGHTERING BEALS.

SLAUGETERING SEALS.

Hundreds of fur seals are now being slaughtered off the mouth of the Columbia, they extending in great numbers as far south as Tillamook. The mode of operation is very simple. From the schooner, which is the base of operations of each crew, put off a number of bonts each with two men, one to row and one to shoot. The trick is to wound and disable the seal without instantly killing it. A seal struck in a vital part, doubles up, dies and sinks. A seal wounded will stay on the surface till it dies, and a boat that approaches near enough for the occupant to get a shot can get to the seal and hand it aboard before it dies. If there is any delay, and the seal dies before it is reached, it is lost to its captors and goes to the bottom.

One of the Great Newspapers of the Country."
Catholic Bentinel.
The Oregonias this week comes in a new dress, and is printed on stereotherplates. To be able to do this is the crowning point in the development of a newspaper enterprise.
The Orreorian has long taken rank, not only as the leading daily of the Northwest, but as one of the great newspapers of the but as one of the great newspapers of the country. It is a proud achievement for the proprietors and publishers, Messrs, Pittock & Scott, and reflects credit on them and on the whole state.

"Will Always Bear that Title,"

Corralis Gazette.
On last Salurday morning The Dathy One-GOMES, of Portland, was printed from stereo-type plates and on paper manufactured at the mills at La Camas. THE OREGONIAN is the greates, new-paper on the Northwest coast, and all always bear that title.

"Bound to Keep Up With the Times." The Ore ionian now stereolypes its forms, which will much improve its readable qualities and will be of other advantage to the in-side working of the paper. This able paper is bound to keep up with the times in all re-"Always an Excellent Newspaper."

The Orrosary, always an excellent newspaper, is now equal to any paper on the coast. Last Saturday they printed for the first time from electrotype plates, and also for the first time since the fire, on La Camas paper.

If wool is to go on the free list wholen goods should go on the free list, too. There is no farmers in compelling the wool grower to sell his wood in a free trade market and to buy his clothing in a protected market

The argument presented for this policy of free wool and taxed woolens is as sophistical and fallacious as the policy itself is inequit wool, and yet talls the wool guyser that he will not receive less for his wool when it is not longer profected. It assumes that the duty on wool is a burden to be removed nince it obstructs importation and makes surie it obstructs importation and makes workens dear, yet it tells the wool grower that he will not be hirt by torogin competition. And while it true to persu de the wool grower that he does not need protection it assures the woolen manufacturer that he shall not be deprived of it.

A STOPA BY JULIA DIFTO YOUNG ALTHOR OF THREE TIMES AND OUT DIC

Write to the Oregonian ] Miss Merriin having expresse I an over veening fondness for spring flowers John Rudston ber sworn knight, found his steps one April morning bending toward the Deer street market, where the desired floral treasures are to be found in great abundance. The fish stalls whose odors have the mage property of inspiring in the passer by a viclent repugnance to the sec ond course at his dinner for many divis the crockery booths, where dishes, hideous in color and primative in design vet find she said ready buyers the stands of early vegeta bles, whose cool freshness tempts the tightest held purse to open—all those Rud ston passed, and paused before a large where hyacinths, lilies and mignonette sent forth perfumes soul-detuning as the

"I want some narcissus, Mrs Hoffner," he called, for it was by no means his first "Some white narcissus, daisies, purchase violets—that sort of thing, you know?

He stopped, astonished, for it was not

Mrs Hoffner who turned and came forward from the gloom at the back of the stall, but a young girl of exceeding beauty Her light-brown hair, smooth as satin, was parted madonna wise over a white brow, her dark blue eves, large and heavily lashed, were full of tenderness and gravity. The lines of her face were undescribably delicate and fine, and her whole aspect expressed compthism. delicate and fine, and her whole aspect ex-pressed something pure and high. Her gown was a dark purple, a light blue scarf covered her head and softly framed her pale face. As she stood in the spring sun-light, her hands full of sweet white bloe soms, Rudston thought her the most ideal by iair and worshipful woman he had ever

He lingered naturally enough over the buying of the flowers, but a certain dignity so hedged the young woman about that it was impossible to make any talk with her He would have gone away no Wiser con cerning her than when he came, only that Mrs Hoffner presently waddled in sight and introduced the girl as her caughter, just from the fatherland

"She's peop and such wor!"

"She's poor und sick now," apologized the mother, 'but ve will soon hat her look ing so well sah me"
"Henven forefind!" Rudsten broatled oven forefend " Rudston breathed in his soul, for Mrs Hoffner was re heaven to retend." Rudston breathed in his soul, for Mrs Hoffner was round and ruddy far beyond the requirements of beauty. The young man hoped it might forever remain impossible to trace any resemblance between her and the ethereal creature beside her.

"My Lena has het to best education Chermany could gif," declared Mrs. Hoffner. "Und she has coom agross to help me, ven she might had peen a teacher—to gompanion of a gountess—a laty herself!"
Instinctively Rudston russed his hat "Miss Hoffner is a lady anywhere," he gaid, earnestly, and was rewarded by a grateful glance from the large blue eyes which seemed to tell him that she had al ready felt the hardships of her singular position. He bowed and walked slowly on his mind absorbed by speculations about the lady market girl. She was marvel onsly lovely but he was not faccinated only by the mere sensions charm of her heady. only by the mere sensuous charm of her beauty There was something ennolling, uphting in her very nature which had communicated itself to lum—he felt a bet ter man, more capable of work, thought, endeavor since they had evchanged those few brief glances. And then he pitted her sol—it was creat their their control of the solution of the solu endeavor since they had exchanged those few bure glances. And then he putied her so!—it was cruel that she, sensitive and re fined, should stand all day exposed to the coarse admiration, the envy, or the jests of the rude throng about her. He raged to think that his own mother and sisters, chancing to buy flowers at Mrs. Hoffner s that day, would bestow upon that percless marken the superclious regard and tone that to her would seem an insulf. "You are so good to take this interest in me," she said gratefully. The chill re serve which had always characterized her manner to Fudston was swept away, she did not even resent his clasp of her hands. At last she withdrew them, and after placing a chair for her visitor, seated herself. "It was because all my brothers and sisters—there are mine of us, I am the youngest—are married now, and I was so sorry that my father and mother were alone. They wrote for me to come I know it would be hard, but perhaps I should never have dared if I had known now life would be deprived of elegance, of comfort, even of decency. They are proud of me, but they don't understand or love me. Only tunk! they kept me at school many years, and never seemed to grudge the money, yet now I may not buy a dollar's worth of calico to screen my bed And I must stay here I must because I love them and I want to cheer them and bring some brightness into their poor, hard lives."

"You heroine!" thought Rudston But he only sau., "It will get easier You must give German lessons I will find you some pupils I'll be one myself !"
"Oh, will you truly? and will you begin to-might?"

great danger of perjury and frau t behufflen 7 John Ch 254 Story

A Discussion Brought Out by the Woman's International Convention TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

It is generally stated in the books, that a cross bill must be filed before publication—that is before the taking of testimony in the original case is closed and the same opened to the inspection of the parties or published—unless where some new matter as a release arises aftern urls, or the case appears at the hearing too imperfect to reach and settle the rights of all the puries.

As an illustration of the reason of this restriction Chancellor kent in Lieldy by third felm (7 John Ch. 230 six-set It is too late. The woman suffrage movement began in 1818 Its condition to day measured by the come increase of our population and public intel ligen e during the last forty relatively less a live issue than it than twenty years ago. In fact it may be furly described to-day in most of our states fairly described to-day in most of our states as so nearly mornhund as justify the description as dead but still walking round to save funeral expenses."

The great mass of women are indifferent to it as they always have been and the great mass of men are more indifferent to it than they were their years go. A good many able in a once felt interested enough in it to striction Chancellor kent in Lield v is hiff felin (7 John th 2x3) siys—I his too late after publication, to introduce new and fur ther testimony to the matter in issue by the contrivance of a cross bill. It would be doing in an indirect way per obliquism what is forbaiden to be done directly—referring to Hamersley v Lambert (2 John th 432). The reison given for this is that if after the publication of the testimony and the defendant has found of the whereant is defective he was allowed to supply the same by suppletory proof taken on a cross bill there would be great danger of perjury and fraud Preld v behuffler 7 John th 2x4 Story s either est in cut or betterly opposent. Now, few able men vicorously sequence its cause, and the mood of the magnitude of position is one of good natured contempt one stormed again that they now only smile and your weight tolerating its existence as But the fact on which this artificial super structure of caution and prevention is raised his long since ceased to exit in the courts of the United States. At one time all it stin ony liken in a suit in equity was the in by eximing so commissioners on written interrop, to loss and neither the parties nor their attornus were allowed to be present at the eximination while the persons before whom the term in which the persons before whom the term in wis thin were sworn to secrect 1 Smith. of 1 ubheatton was p is ed and the depositio is were opened.

Now however under equity ride 67 the testimony may be taken or dit before in examiner in the price of the 1 in examiner in the premises who propound the interogrations in y be and a ually are opened and inspected as soon as returned to the clerk soffice. In other words, there is no longer any secrecy in the premises and three is now no reison why the period or fact of publication should be urbitrarily presented as the point of time beyond which a crossbill cannot be filed. The court may are spoite direct the hing of a crossbill when it uppears necessary to a complete determination of the case at any time before final decree, and in my judgment there ought to be a fixed rule against a defendant shiing a crossbill in a proper case before the final hearing—the objection of laches being disposed of it each case on the particular circumstances thereof, or by rule of court or the supreme court.

But even under the old state of things the objection to filing a cross bill after publication had passed was really confined to cases or at least the reason given for it would so confine it, where the cross bill stought to introduce new or further testimony concerning the matters already in issue. But this bill seeks nothing of the kind. It sets up a prior determination between the plaintiffs therein and the defendant Golfra of the question of the validity of the convevances to the Griwfords a matter which is not mentioned in the original bill or the unswers thereto and about which no testimony could have been taken and concerning which there can be no danger of perjury for it must be proved if at all, by the record.

The application for leave to file the cross bill was placed on the ground that the defense did not arise until April II 1887 when the suit of Golfra Dast of the Missi sippi the cause of woman suffrage leads a suckly life for people have learned to distinguith between the practical movement for the advancement of we movement for the advancement of women un education enlarged domain of employments and professions equality of wages industrial equality and independence and the imprac-ticable and inexpedient effort for political equility at the ballot box. Liberal men-admit that many women could be found that would vate with more intelligence and that would vote with more intelligence and conscience than the average man, but the men who are most earnest in the efforts for the advancement of women do not beheve that the suffrage, as 4 general endowment would either help women or purify politics and this conviction is increasing rither than decreasing in strength. The best friends of the advancement of women fail to see what protection the ballot would assure to women that is not now enjoyed by them under law supreme court, by the dismissal of the appeal and therefore it was in the nature of a plea juris darreis continuance. This conclusion was based on the theory that the decree of the state current court in Golfra v. IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND. NECESSITY FOR IMPROVING KING STREET - King street from B street to the Eat Stock King street from B street to the hat stock Association's building has been in a drend ful state all winter. A sewer was put in the street last fall, which was guilled out by the first heavy rains, loaving the street in such had condition that huckmen, expression and even the drivers of grocers' delivery wagons refused to travel it to the great an novan e of residents in that neighborhood. This spring an effort has been made to have the street if a thoroughlare more resembling a mountain trail can be so called un proved. To the disgust of the long suffering people some interested property owners have started in to oppose the improvement, and it is said are about to defeat it. Opposition to an improvement so saidly needed is an outrage.

But in Maintaining a Principle, Smashed a Win

It is an old saying that two of a trade can never agree, and this is exchapilited in the case of the employes at the Mount Hood laundry. The insulinion was started to save people from the necessity of sending their washing to Chinese and it has been quite successful. The men employed there will allow no Chinese to work about the place, and yesterday, when a pile of several cords of wood sawed in short lengths by in front of the place and a Chinaman offered to pack it up into the second story for $1 sey oral of the men employed said they would do the work themselves rather than have the Chinaman around.

do the work themselves rather than have the Chinaman around
So they rigged up two stagings and with a man on each and the other on the ground, the wood was gaily tossed from one to an other and through a second story window it was a pleasant at denithful exercise for the men for a time but soon grew monoton out and finally the third man missed a stick and, the upper part of the window having and, the upper part of the window having been boarded over crashed through the lower half smashing a square of glass worth more than the Chimmon asked for packing up the wood. The plut of the play presents a series of inisfortines which occur to a pay interest in the English army, who, by the machinations of an evil colonel, is for the time being overwhelmed with guilt but at last underlies himself and all ends happity. One of the strongest features of the play is its several magnificent stage settings which are all carried by the company. Among these may be mentioned the realt to water scene und the escape from the barract's prison both of which are models of the scene painters art. The cast is a thoroughly computent one and includes several clever artists.

A PALACE.

The Largest and Most Elegantly Appointed Saloon in the Metropolis Last July the Banquet corner of First and Mudison was opened by I W Stanley and at the time was regarded as first class in all re-Mulsion was opened by I W Stanley and at the time was opened as first class in all respects. Some months ago the propertor concurred the idea of securing the pillars of the pre-cenium hores at the New Market, then being dismantled and with these imaging arating a complete change in the appointments of the tesort. The best mechanics were secured and for three months have given their undrived attention to the work required their undrived attention to the original and at the rear of the bar giving a straing all their respective to their undrived attention to the front and at the rear of the bar giving a straing affect even in their rough state. The room's were extended twenty five feet and off the bar a reading and four card rooms were constructed in keeping with the front portion. What mystes special attention is the decoration of the bar, which required special study in the arrange ment of the designs and days of hard work and a fund of principe in the caccution thereof. The reling is done in yirious shades of the chonest selected pages, and worked in an artistic manner, nothing of a guida character bring apparent. While this work in itself is very hine the wall decorations exceed in splendor. Here a blue ground of plush is surmounted by panets of plush paper with gold rechef. In the large panels are hung elogant pictures those back of the bar being especially framed for the pluse allotted them. The bar fixtures, shelving and counters are models of the cubinet makers' skill. The furniture placed thereon is elegant in the extreme and in keeping with the general surroundings. The arches at the rear of the bar are made junusually attractive by portieres of vertive plush in excitacil and olive shades and unstate work of theroughly.

experienced upholsters. Chandchers hing in the bar and reading room and afford a flood of light from the many gas jets one may judge of the elaboritaness of the work and he cost thereof by the time necessary to bring about the wonderful changes wrought. Mr. F. M. Brown, of Shelby Brow, did the papering white working complete the view of the painting necessary. Messars Berger & Waddell accomplished the artistic lettering on the front and upon the ornamental electric lung on the front and upon the ornamental electric lung on the front and upon the ornamental electric lung at the entrance. C. Carmichiel, the carpenter, and assistants did the mitiative in the remodeling. J. M. Birmingham furmshed several antique oak chairs apecially designed, and the tables. Messar Forbes & Whoeler the carputs G. Shindler & Co the upholstering and Gump & (o the special frames F. I. Estudan the artist, executed the pastel. Cupid and Venus "and Birs I. M. Lech ler of the Whi e Bewing Machine office added no hittle in the preparation of the work in several small panels of plush.

That the proprietor has faith in the south call is attested by the great outlay of money expended to make the Banquet the most elegant resort in the city. I rom 2 to 5 P. M. to day the shioon will be open fr unspection to lady and escorts and a fine lunch.

Forecast of Nominations to be Made by Multnomah Republicans

Some of the Aspirants Certain of a Place, Others in Doubt-The Legislative Ticket-Work of the State Convention

The republic in convention for Multionish ct unts will meet at ten o clock this morning in the ceurt hou e to make nominations for county officers and members of the legisla ture and to select thirty delegates to the state Convention There are 71 delegates of whom 47 are from Portland and 24 from Fast Portland and all other outlying precincts. It is never sife to save positively what a convention will do, but different inquiry among delegates enables The Onegonian to forecast a Penumbra Kelly has all the rest and is nor ling hard to procure several from Portland. If the nonmenton of clerk comes first in the order of but miss kelly will stand little show for the shries style accuse. Wheeler will get the clerk hip and it would be considered hoggish for the east side to ask for the two tattest offices in addit on to several minor positions. For treasurer, the candidates are Frant II ichemy, P B Sinnott and Wm Showers with chances decidedly in favor of Hackens for itsessor, each Harold is almost certain to be an animated. His opponents are Goo C Serra and Charles Schramm. For school superintendent Prof W A Wetzel of East Portlind will probably have no opposition. T M Hurlburk will no doubt be nonunated for survey or and A P Def in for coroner. For county commissioners the Portland delegation are a unit in favor of Hon. H W Corb it, and the cast side will be asked to name the other candidate. Four men are mentioned for the place. Carl W Hanson the seedsman, Benjamin F Smith, con tracter of Sellwood, too. THE STATE CONVENTION Will meet in this city Wednesday April 11

There will be little work to do except to adopt a platform, select delegates to the mational convention and nonmade president if electors. How Binger Hermann will doubtless be re-nominated for congress by acclarantion. Judge W. P. Lord will be probably re-nominated for supreme judge if he deares the position again. Among those suggested for presidential electors are J. B. Eddy of Fendition it 8 Anderson of Baker City. H. B. Miller of Josephine J. D. Lee of Folk, and J. C. Fuilerton of Douglas If Millmomah county be allowed to name one of the electors the ununimous choice of the delegation will be William Kapus.

Nearly every county in the state except perhaps Tilliamook. Curry Lake and Klam with, will have one or more candidates for delegate to the national convention, and after all the timber has been caulied by respective to the mational convention. The context for the honor of going to a national convention will be waitner than it was thus week at Pendleton as the republicans have a pre-sidential candid it to select The democratic candidate has already been chosen and the delegates will be called upon to fill only the second place on the tacket.

For district attorney for the Fourth Judic ial district, the choice seems to have Islien on the present incumbent, H. K. McGinn. Will meet in this city Wednesday April 11
